In Our Own Words

Canadian adults living with Autism and movement disorders find their voices through Supported Typing.

Announcing New Book and DVD about Canadian adults living with Autism and movement disorders who find their voices through Supported Typing

Bridges is a community of communicators who gather regularly in Guelph from all over southern Ontario. We are adults who live with neuro-motor disabilities including severe communication impairments so we cannot speak with our voices. We use Supported Typing to express ourselves on various keyboard devices.

We have just produced the DVD and book In Our Own Words to illustrate our joy in communicating with the world and how we share struggles and strategies in our lives. We also explain our passion to enable others to get over or around the communication barriers that so often exclude and isolate us.

The DVD consists of two main parts—a series of conversations about the importance of Supported Typing in coping with Autism and planning our own lives (23.25 minutes), and eight participant profiles in which most of us introduce ourselves (18 minutes). Our families and friends have supported our typing and some have spoken our words for the DVD.
